Established in 2007, Green Home was South Africa's first compostable food packaging company and spearheaded the introduction of bagasse and plant-based bioplastic products to the local market. It's a founding member of the Organics Recycling Association of South Africa (ORASA), whose mission is to promote and expand South Africa's composting and organic recycling market.

Green Home's vision is to provide sustainable packaging for takeaway food throughout Africa and beyond. It believes that if food packaging is necessary, it should be made from sustainable, renewable resources and it should last only as long as it is needed.
